suppose there is a user who actively spend time on your videos and you want to show some love towards them you can simply send a diamond to them and express that you value them very much this is how the coins are working on tiktok unlike with youtube where you sell space on your videos and channel page for advertising at a rate decided by google tiktok does not yet compensate most of its users for running ads on their posted photos as such tiktok influencers and brands don t have an intermediary or any set rates if they choose to work together brands make deals with influencers and prices can vary markedly depending on the circumstances however one thing is consistent in nearly all cases influencers get paid more if they have both a high engagement rate as well as a high number of followers brands have learned that you can easily buy followers who are of no practical value to anybody hence they are far more interested in you having genuine followers those who interact with your posts promote your videos on your other social channels and your blog too if you have one the more people who know about your content the more will watch and like it the more you promote your content the more additional followers you are likely to gain and the closer you will be to being considered an influencer
